Australian Institute of Training and Development 2013 National Training Excellence Awards Announced

18 October 2013

Last night the Australian Institute of Training and Development (AITD) announced the winners and finalists of its National Training Excellence Awards, during a Gala Dinner at the Menzies Hotel in Sydney.

AITD is the association of choice for training, learning and development professionals. Since 2002 AITD National Training Excellence Awards have recognised outstanding excellence in learning and development and in organisational development.

AITD Chief Executive Officer, Elizabeth Robinson, said “AITD is extremely proud to recognise the movers and the shakers, the innovators, the unsung heroes, who are pushing the boundaries of best practice in our profession.”

Awards were presented across eight categories:

- eLearning Achievement
- Australian Learning Innovation
- Best Implementation of a Blended Learning Solution
- Excellence in a Learning Resource
- Organisational Learning Effectiveness
- The Mark Pompei Student Scholarship
- AITD Divisional Council Member of the Year
- Learning and Development Professional of the Year.

There were a record number of entries for this year’s awards. AITD National President Jeanne Marshall said “A very high standard was needed to be named as a Finalist in this year’s awards, and all Finalists should be very proud of their achievements.”

For the first time AITD offered a new category of Award, for the Learning and Development Professional of the Year. This Award recognises individual achievement with a particular focus on consistently high quality leadership and the sharing of skills and knowledge.

Two individuals were recognised as Learning and Development Professional of the Year.

- The Queensland/Northern Territory Learning and Development Professional of the Year is Marc Ratcliffe, CEO of MRWED Training and Assessment.
- The New South Wales Learning and Development Professional of the Year is Kevin Lohan, Director of Endeavour Training and Development.

A special feature on the AITD National Training Excellence Awards will appear in the December 2013 edition of Training & Development magazine.

This year’s Awards were made possible with the generous and ongoing support of AITD’s sponsors: Bluegem, Citrix, Karstens, and Net Dimensions.
